The Giants are not improving their lead any these days. They are holding their own and that's all. The Cubs beat them yesterday, but, fortunately, the Phillies came with a rush in the ninth and grabbed a game from the Reds and the Pirates lost in Boston. The Cardinals, who for the moment are playing the best game in their league, nosed out the

The well known team of Mathewson and eyers had a feverish time yesterday While their temperature was thing but their normal condition of doing hash of things between them in the sixth inning, Matty going bad after the Chief had fallen into erring ways. An error made by the Chief, which was a dropped run. The score: throw at the plate, opened wide the speed way to the plate. It is doubtful if there'd have been a run but for this misdemeanor, yet the runs that followed were due to the fact that Matty lost his grip.

After Meyers's misplay had let in a run Matty made a wild pitch and gave a base on balls. The Cubs frisked his pitching for four singles during the nightmare. Also bearing on the fact that five Cubs bounded to the plate was lack of quick decision by the New York infield in trying to run down a man caught between bases. The man escaped and eventually scored.

Matty used his slow lob a great deal. and it had the Cubs guessing a good deal. though there were pitches of the veteran's which they reversed over the base hit route with a fair amount of frequency and effect. A wild pitch and three bases on balls made an extraordinary record for Matty. Once the ball slipped out of his hand and looped far over a batter's head Matty never was good on June 11, 1914.
Also tolling on the pinnacle was Jeems Vaughn. The big fellow perspired until he was as wet as seaweed. That was the only way he was seaked. With supple wrist he imparted extra speed to his ser-to either Vaughn or Saier each time Saler hit through Snodgrass for a home run in the first inning. The Glants made a run in their haif on doubles to right by a run in their haif on doubles to right by Bescher and Burns. Burns was on second with nobody out, and Grant sacrificed him to third. Doyle hit to Keating and Burns was out at the plate. Matty retired Vaughn on three pitched balls in the third, all slow drops, and Vaughn going after all three. Grant, Doyle and Merkle were retired on three pitched balls in the fourth, each burding. Snodgrass, in the fifth, was

each bunting. Snoograss, in the fifth, was the fourth member of the bunt squad. Saier struck out in the sixth, but Zimmerman soiled a slow one. He jumped it past Grant. Schulte whaled to right and forwarded Zim to third. Sweeney grounded to Grant, who threw to Meyers. The Chief touched Zim coming in, but negatived the play by dropping the ball. It rolled behind him and Schulte and Sweeney each advanced. On a wild pitch they advanced again, Schulte to the plate

Keating was passed and Bresnahan singled. He fetched Sweeney home. He was caught half way between first and second on Snodgrass's throw to Stock. Stock threw to Merkle and Keating took a lead off third. Merkle, watching both men warily but not warily enough, threw to warily but not warny enough, threw to Doyle, but too late to hip Roger, although Doyle dropped the throw. Vaughn singled to right and two more runs scored on that. The Giants then composed themselves and raised the portcullis, but it had been low-farsed the partial form of the sixth the Cubs wabbled a trifle in the sixth the Cubs wabbled a trifle in the sixth themselves. A hit by Burns, a wild toss by Zimmerman on Murray, a sacrifice fly by Doyle and a hit by Merkle gave the Giants two runs. Saler offset that with a grand tour in the seventh, adjuncts of which were a base on balls, a bad throw by Meyers on Saier's steal and a hit by hulte, who was vindictive with the hal-

Sweeney's fielding bromide put Stock on sweeney's neighbor promise put Stock on third in the seventh. The late Brave fumbled a placid grounder, threw without taking aim and threw wild. The ball went into some recess, or so conducted itself that a debate ensued. Subject, resolved that Stock was entitled to three bases. The Cubs, with Bresnahan senior wrang-ler, took the negative side. Not being as skilled in argument as the umps, they lost and Stocky held his position. He came in

To-day's Schedule,

St. Louis, June 11 .- The New Yorks tossed away a game to-day that it seemed they were about to win, the Browns taking it by 3 to 1, with a patched up front. First Baseman Leary essayed to do the catching for the Browns, whose catching staff is largely on the shelf, and for a few innings every visitor who got to first base stole. With this handlcap it seemed that the New Yorks would win surely, but the breaks were against Chance's men.

Maisel and Truesdale put together hits in the third for a run, with the necessary steal sandwiched in between. Clarence Walker tripled for the Browns in the fourth after Pratt had got safe on a muff of his fly to Peckinpaugh, tying the score. Then came the bad breaks for New York. Warhop, who was pitching effectively, cut loose with a screaming double down the left foul line. There were two out at the time. Maisel promptly lined to left, straight to Walker, but very deep. Fearing he would be thrown out at the plate, Warhop made his turn at third as close as possible. When the ball was returned to the infield, Austin touched third and made an appeal to the universe.

plate, Warhop made his turn at third as close as possible. When the ball was returned to the infield, Austin touched third and made an appeal to the unpires, who declared Warhop out for not touching the base.

After that Warhop seemed to lose his efficiency and the Browns got to him in the sixth. Miller opened the inning by getting hit on the arm. Pratt then slashed a wicked grounder about twenty feet inside first. Williams was playing close to the bag and had no chance to get the ball. Truesdale slung himself over and made a beautiful stop, recovered and threw to Williams in time to get the flying Pratt. Miller meantime had gone to third, never hesitating at second, Will. iams's hurried throw was high and went to the grand stand wall, Miller soring easily. Then Gus Williams lined a long at third, tried for home and was caught at the plate by a perfect throw by Williams. It was a close decision.

After the sixth McKale was in the box and stopped the Nt. Louis scoring, after the Browns got their lead Manager Rickey and Lary was the made and stopped the Nt. Louis scoring at third, tried for home and was caught at the plate by a perfect throw by Williams. It was a close decision.

CUTSHAW'S IS TOO TOUGH

Can't Show Orth a Bruise, So Umpire Won't Let Him Take His Base.

A couple of strong arms beat Ed Reulbach out of yesterday's game at Ebbets Field and gave Miller Huggins's Cardinals their second straight win. The score was 2 to 1, and but for the arms mentioned might just as well have been The contrary one of the two belonged to Red Smith and was guilty of a two base error at the worst possible time. The inoffensive and sorely abused one belonged to Cutshaw. It was wounded by one of Doak's fastest in the seventh inning. And still the member was so proof against assault that not even a red mark showed the spot of contact. Cutshaw rolled up his leeve fully expecting to find a bump the size of a hen's egg. But through his honest intention he lost the argument. Tabasco Kid Elberfeld, who argued with his old stable mate Orth first from one side of his face and then from the other, tried in vain to make a red mark or a black and blue mark to win his case. But the sinewy strength of the Cutshaw wing was as impervious to Norman's pinches as it had been proof against the shafts of Doak.

Had Cutshaw received his base, as it seemed his right to all save Orth, Brooklyn couldn't have got worse than a tle. Cutshaw was the first man up in this inning and after both he and Stengel grounded to the box O'Mara slashed a hit through Beck. That hit would have scored Cutshaw from second, where by right he belonged at the time. As it was Beck saved the game for Doak by going away back into left centre for McCarty's puzzling Texas leaguer. O'Mara was on third at the time of this robbery, Snyder's throw into centre field on a steal handing him an extra base. Miller reached third with none out in BROWNS ALLOW NEW YORKS

Hiller reached third with none out in the seventh when Smith threw low to the stands. Wilson's out sent the runner to third and Snyder hit home the winning run after Whitted fanned. Huggins doubled down the right field line with only one out in the eight he was trapped off the midway when he made a break for third before Reulbach started his delivery. Huggins shrieked in valn to Byron in claim of a balk and when his supplication went unanswered when his supplication went unanswered roughed it a bit with O'Mara trying to get back. The two little gamecocks were ready to settle the question in the arena, but Byron crowded between and shooed them off like naughty children. The score:

The whole racing enterprise is new at Sioux City, but the field that has been drawn is worthy of an experienced promotion outfit. The races should be good if the course for the event is put into the promised condition.

This week in the show windows of the local Goodyear tire branch, as well as in the windows of more than 10,000 tire dealers elsewhere throughout the country, are to be seen displays of Goodyear try, are to be seen displays of Goodyear tires and accessories, pennants, &c. It is the climax of a national window display campaign the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company has had on for the past several weeks. The result has been a revelation. Goodyear advertised its "window week" in national publications and newspapers in branch cities, including photographs of the standard Good-year windows, and called on consumers to watch for the Goodyear windows in year product.

More than twenty-five carloads of display material, besides tires and accessories themselves, were shipped to various parts of the country for the campaign, weighing about 215 tons, and the entire event is regarded as one of the most significant in the history of tire salesman ship. Goodyear has employed regularly

a window display man of international reputation, and window work will be a regular Goodyear sales institution from this time forward.
